

Disney Cruise Line

Fun Facts

- Disney Magic and Disney Wonder are nearly as long as the Eiffel Tower is tall. Each ship is 964 feet long, and the Eiffel Tower is 986 feet high.
- If the Disney Magic or Disney Wonder were a land vehicle, it would need an eight lane highway (including median!) to handle its width.
- The anchor alone is as heavy as two Tyrannosaurus rex dinosaurs or three elephants. Each ship weighs 90 million pounds.
- The ship is happy to let you reach out and touch someone with its 1,950 telephones. That's enough phone cord to run a phone all the way up Pike's Peak, and then some.
- The horsepower of Disney Magic and Disney Wonder's five engines is equivalent to the power of more than 100 NASCAR racing cars -- running at full speed.
- Each ship can make 1,200 tons of fresh water from sea water each day -- that's enough glasses of water for everyone in Chicago and Houston combined.
- Disney Cruise Line will transport approximately 10,000 suitcases per operating day. If each bag weighs 15 pounds, the team will get a great daily workout: lifting 75 tons.
- There are 1,367 miles of cable on the ship -- enough to run an extension cord between Austin, Texas and Detroit, Michigan.
- The 20,000 gallons of paint it took to paint the Disney Magic (or Disney Wonder) could paint 2,000 average American houses.
- There are 5,390 pillows on board.
- 8,260 cups of coffee are served every day, on board.
- Of the 50,000 eggs consumed every morning at breakfast, 1,956 will be scrambled, 552 will be served sunny-side up, 480 will be soft boiled, 984 will become omelets, and the other 976 will be used for various egg dishes.
